

Lubov Naidenova A., the Institute of Reflexive Investigations
and Specialisations, Zaporozhye, the Ukraine
REFLEXIVE CREATIVE WORKSHOP (RCW) IN THE SPECIFIC ECONOMIC SITUATION IN THE UKRAINE

RCW is the method of realisation of group reflection. Nowadays the Institute of Reflexive Investigations and Specialisations develops this conception. RCW has its practical usage in such spheres: spheres connected with the prognosis of success of enterprise activity of a person; forming the team of new economic structure; the development of conception of economic activity of the enterprise during the transition to market; the development of economic thinking of children, etc.

RWC modelizes situation of uncertainty which is typical for transition to market relationship in the Ukraine and suggests means of management of individual and group conflictness in the situation of creative activity. We consider the criterions of psychological selection of pretenders. It is supposed that one of the leading criterion in current economic conditions is the development of the system of reflexion. The system of reflexion is displayed as individual contribution into joint solving of creative problem. The multimeasure of individual contribution (intellectual, personal, interpersonal components) makes up in the frames of common parity and different competence of participants. Reflexive paradigma makes up the context of mutualmediation of individual contribution and reflexive environment managed by psychologist-workshoppers.

The focus of this work is the discussion of conception of group reflexion which is the foundation of RCW and which is practised in the Ukraine and to describe researches of individual contribution of partners in laboratory and training situations of joint creative work.